FA 151 work due in year

Extension of FA Route 151 (The Great River Road) from Granite City to Venice is scheduled to begin next year following construction of the Chicago Avenue grade separation in West Granite, it was reported Friday by State Sen. Sam Vadalabene, Democrat of Edwardsville.

The work, which Senator Vadalabene said should begin some time after July 1, 1975, as part of the state highway work schedule, would extend the paving of the Great River Road from Niedringhaus Avenue in Granite City to a point just south of McKinley bridge in Venice, a distance of about two miles.

Construction of the Chicago Avenue grade separation near the Granite City Army Installation is included in the Department of Transportation work program during the present fiscal year. Cost is estimated at $1,850,000.

Vadalabene said that the Department of Transportation has completed all federal requirements for the approval of the pavement construction with the exception of the environmental analysis, and that this is now in the process of completion.

Right-of-way for the grading and construction of the River Road connection between Granite City and Venice has been acquired.

11 swimmers treated

Eleven children, including 3 from Granite City, were taken to Wood River Hospital at 3:42 p.m. Friday suffering from over exposure to chlorine. The 11 had been swimming at Tower Lake on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Seven of the swimmers were treated at the hospital and released, four remain hospitalized. None of the children were reported in critical condition by the hospital.

The Edwardsville fire department sent two ambulances to the lake in response to calls for aid.

Electric power to the lake area was turned off early Friday to permit hookups to new construction on the recreation peninsula of the lake. During the time that the power was off, an apparent excess concentration of chlorine accumulated in the chlorination system.

University security officers cleared the lake area and swimming will be permitted until the area has been determined to be free of excess chlorine.

The four children admitted to the hospital are: Lawrence Hinkle, 7, Granite City; John Heilig, 12, Caseyville; and Mary Rual, 10, and Helen Hamilton, 8, both of Edwardsville.

Treated and released were: Patty Hamilton, 9, and Joey Hamilton, 6, both of Edwardsville; Debbie Johnson, 6, and Tommy Hooker, 5, both of Caseyville; and Joshua Sweet, 4, and Sarah Sweet, 8, both of Caseyville. The 11th child taken to the hospital was checked and released; identification was not immediately available.

City action blocks new home building

(Editorial on Page 10)
Residential construction in the mile-and-a-half zone surrounding Granite City has been slowing to a snail's pace in 1973 and 1974, a study showed today.

Little or no home building is occurring, reducing the number of construction job opportunities, restricting growth of the property tax base and limiting the amount of housing available to those wishing to reside here.

The absence of home construction is attributed to opposition by the city government to new structures unless they are situated where they can be brought within the city limits.

The city, in effect, has veto power over the mile-and-a-half wide zone. Madison County has been declining to record new plans unless they meet with the municipality's approval.

An example of the projects that are stalled is the Fourth Addition to Town and Country East, south of Stratford Lane and north of Westmoreland Drive.

Six homes are proposed in a Willard farm area bounded on the west by the original Town and Country East development of eight homes and the Second Addition (18 homes).

The new tract is bounded on the east by Town and Country East First Addition (21 residences) and Third Addition (19 homes and sites).

All five areas are in Nameoki Township. The proposed Fourth Addition is not contiguous to Granite City and thus could not be annexed at this time.

All six homes that are proposed have been restricted to the $30,000-$40,000 price range, or higher.

Developer is the Morris Realty Company, 1907 Edison Ave., a pioneer Granite City firm reputed by some to have "built half of the city."

Subdivisions developed by Morris over the years include: Lincoln Place Addition, Washington Boulevard Addition, Eastmoor, Webster School Addition.

Northlands Addition, Ingleside Addition, Wilson Park Addition, Morris Manor, Parkview Place, Marshall School Addition and Town and Country East.

In addition to the extensive past development by the Morris firm in Granite City, it

Who's the most non-political politician at the Statehouse at present?

Some might guess Gov. Dan Walker, who won election in 1972 by campaigning as an anti-politician. But by many yardsticks he has become, perhaps by necessity, a practicing politician.

The state elected officer who is turning out to be the least political of them all is a veteran and proficient officeholder, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett.

Howlett is following the well-known philosophy frequently voiced by the Chicago mayor, Richard J. Daley, that "good government is good politics."

Howlett's way of doing this is to slash the payroll of the secretary of state's office to an extent which would have appalled previous secretaries.

This office in recent years has increasingly been regarded as the last stronghold of traditional patronage politics. Perhaps even more than the governor, the secretary of state has been regarded as the biggest dispenser of patronage in state government.

In the past when someone was fired in the secretary of state's organization, it was accepted as merely a device to open up a job for someone considered by the secretary or his top aides as more politically deserving.

But under Howlett, who moved from auditor to secretary of state 18 months ago, all this is changing. Jobs are being abolished. There are no replacements.

When Howlett took office, the secretary of state had a payroll of 4,200 persons. The total so far has been reduced to 3,800 and the secretary has set a goal of 3,600.

Much of the reduction is accounted for by what is considered normal attrition — employees resigning, taking other jobs or leaving for a variety of reasons.

There have been 44 terminations for "just cause."

Closing of 47 driver licensing examining stations throughout the state removed 111 employees.

On July 15, an additional 95 employees were released as a result of further reorganization and restructuring of examination station field offices.

Although there is a tendency for state offices to steadily gain new employees once a change of administration housecleaning is completed, the Howlett people insist this will not be the case. The smaller work force will be a permanent thing, they insist.

Capitol cynics aside, this explanation can probably be accepted. Howlett, one of

Clinic funds cut

Quality of care and services provided at the Family Planning Clinic in Granite City were given a high rating in an evaluation survey made recently by consultant specialists for the St. Louis Voluntary Family Planning Council, a regional agency which allocates U.S. Health, Education and Welfare funds to family planning clinics in the St. Louis Metropolitan area.

Virgil Edwards, executive director of the bi-state agency, said today despite the "successful fashion of the clinic's operation and the rapid growth of services to this area" that funds provided to the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission for operation of the clinic have been reduced by two-thirds for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

Edwards cited a reduction of services at the clinic and said "there has been some fiscal accountability with the project in the past."

The Madison County EOC is the agency responsible for administering the funds and maintaining the clinic which serves the Quad-Cities and surrounding area.

Mrs. Martha (Mart) Hogan of Granite City, director of the local family planning clinic, was dismissed last week by Edward P. Schenk, executive director of the Madison County EOC, who said he was authorized to do so by the EOC board and its personnel committee.

Schenk said he notified Mrs. Hogan that her services were terminated due to not keeping the board properly informed of problems in the clinic.

Schenk said the clinic was established with the stipulation that it would be staffed by a doctor in charge of the procedures. He said that since February the doctor's visits have been irregular.

Mrs. Hogan said today a physician was on duty at the clinic each Tuesday evening

Lottery starts Tuesday

Illinois' new state lottery which is expected to produce an additional $60 million for the state treasury, will begin Tuesday. Illinois is the 11th state seeking to cash in on the popularity of legalized lotteries.

Anyone over the age of 18 may buy for 50 cents a chance to win prizes ranging from $20 to $1 million. An estimated 10,000 department stores, groceries, newsstands, pharmacies and charitable organizations have been licensed to sell the tickets.

Those who sell the tickets will retain 10 per cent of their sales, 45 per cent will go for prizes and the balance will go into the state treasury.

Proponents of the plan predict the lottery will pay about 7.5 per cent of the $8 billion state budget and eliminate the necessity of raising taxes.

States already operating lotteries are Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island.

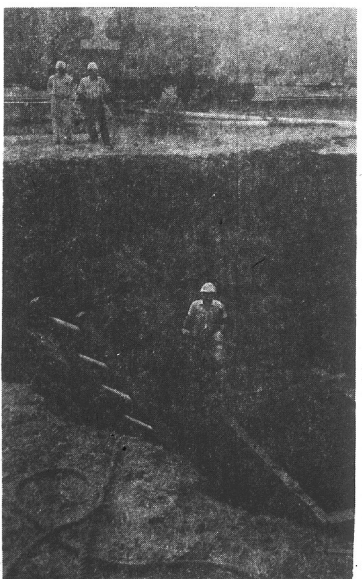

Dobrey Slough line completed

An interim drainage line for the Dobrey Slough has been completed and will become operational as soon as a representative from the company which manufactured the main pump has had an opportunity to inspect and turn on the pump at the slough, a woman for the C. D. Peters Construction Co., contractor, said today.

No firm date for the start of the pump has been set, the spokeswoman said, but indicated the water level in the slough is low at this time.

during the current fiscal year which began July 1. Completion of the grade separation is necessary before the roadway paving can begin.
The city of Venice now is relocating Broadway in Venice to link up with the Broadway underpass and the FA Route 151 roadway, when it is built. Relocated Broadway will take traffic under the railroad tracks and eliminate one of the worst traffic bottlenecks in the area.

City action
also is not ruling out city action in its present and future development program.
A 22-acre tract designed to provide 57 residences was brought into the city this spring and is to be developed with sewer-drainage arrangements can be completed.
The Town and Country East Park addition already is bounded by streets and utility lines. There are no adjacent sewer lines but it is situated at an elevation of 425 feet (compared to 410 feet at St. Clair Avenue and Maryville Road).
It is the highest ground in its area and the soil is sandy.
The Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District advised other Madison County authorities June 15, 1973, that soils in the Fourth Addition are the "Landes-Newark-Darwin" Association, with the Landes and Newark predominating. The area is level and the sandy soils indicate good drainage.
"Lot No. 1 is lower than the others and is saturated with water at times. There appeared to be an odor from the septic system of the present farm house and the percolation test on Hole No. 1 shows slower movement of water in the soil.
"The area appears to be suitable for development if the problems on Lot No. 1 are investigated and corrected."
A Morris spokesman said today that there are no such problems at present and that the farm house is to be removed.
The real estate agency was notified on Feb. 9, 1973, that the City Plan Commission at a regular meeting the previous day had reviewed and approved said preliminary plat of the Fourth Addition.
The matter next was forwarded to the City Council for consideration.
"On April 26, 1973, letter related that negative action had been taken on April 16.
The motion adopted by aldermen regarding the project in Nameoki Township was that "a letter be sent to the subdivision that the Council will not approve the plat for subdividing with septic tanks."
Later requests for a reversal of the rejection have been unsuccessful.

Park budget adopted

A budget of $734,476 for operation of the Granite City Park district during the current 1975-76 fiscal year was approved by the Park Board in a special meeting Saturday morning.

The budget is a decrease of $81,559 below the $816,035 appropriation adopted last year. The reduction was due to elimination of a $120,000 for construction of a new maintenance building at Wilson Park which was included in last year's budget.

The bill appropriates $445,528 for operating costs, down from last year's $536,120, and $199,667 in the recreational fund, down slightly from the $200,759 budgeted a year ago.

For the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund the new appropriation projects expenditures of $22,500, up from $19,500, and projected bond payments are set at $58,281, up from $50,156 last year. Separate tax levy items of $7,500 for tort liability insurance, unchanged from last year, and $2,000 for the annual audit, also unchanged, are included in the bill.

The park district expects to end the current fiscal year with a cash balance of $166,424.64 on the basis of anticipated revenue listed in the budget bill. It asserts that the district began the current fiscal year with a balance of $213,569 and that revenue from all sources during the current year is estimated at $682,332.

Total funds appropriated in the new budget, with last year's figures in parenthesis, are: Corporate purposes—$445,528 ($536,120); recreation program and facilities—$199,667 ($200,759); retirement fund—$22,500 ($19,500); liability insurance—$7,500 (same); bond retirement—$58,281 ($50,156); and audit expenses—$2,000 (same).

Park Board members also approved an ordinance annexing to the park district a 22-acre tract between Stratford Lane, McLaughlin Lane, Worthen Park and a point south of Parkway Drive. The area was annexed to Granite City two months ago and now will be included within park district boundaries.

The new vacant tract was annexed to the city at the request of the Morris Investment Co. which plans to develop the site with residential housing.

Howlett

Illinois' most knowledgeable politicians, keeps up with the times. He realizes that the politics of yesterday do not fit the needs of today.

Patronage has for years been declining in importance as a political weapon. There are never enough jobs to satisfy everyone. In fact, the awarding of one job to one person probably antagonizes 10 others.

What voters want today is a reduction in the government work force and a less costly operation. If this does not lower their taxes, it at least helps prevent them from going higher.

The trick, of course, is to retain an acceptable level of public service while reducing the payroll.

The era of computerization and the new science of business administration have been a boon to public officials in this regard.

Armies of file clerks, bookkeepers and paper shufflers are no longer required. Fewer, highly trained and well-paid employees utilizing modern business machines can do the job better and cheaper, in many instances.

Howlett, who came up the hard way to political success, has adapted to the times and, in doing so, has further strengthened his standing as possibly the most respected and popular elected official in Illinois.

That is why, despite no encouragement from him, one increasingly hears speculation beneath the Statehouse Dome that Mike Howlett stands a good chance of being the next governor of Illinois.

Endorse Expo center bill

At a meeting of its board of directors Thursday in Collinsville, the Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corp. unanimously endorsed Senate Bill 166 calling for the creation of a Metro East Exposition and Performing Arts Authority and urged Governor Daniel Walker to sign this bill.

Richard H. Dykes, executive director of the board, said construction of a civic center here would result in the creation of a number of needed jobs.

"Jobs not only would be created through construction and operation of the center itself," he said, "but through the construction and operation of new businesses which likely will be attracted to our area as a result of this center."

The bill provides for the construction of a $15,000,000 public facility which could be used for conventions, fairs, exhibits, entertainment and similar needs.

Dykes said he is confident that such a center, if built, would be fully utilized.

Illinois Metro East is a non-profit area development corporation serving a three-county area. Its membership includes 150 individuals, businesses, civic organizations, and governmental units.

Part-time self-employment helping many beat inflation

When is up down?
Answer: When you make more money but it buys less. That's what has been happening to millions of Americans. From May 1972 to May 1974, "real spendable earnings" of a married worker with three dependents dropped 5.6 per cent.

In other words, prices are rising faster than wages and salaries and have been for some time.

What are people doing about it? Some are worrying a lot. Some are arguing with their spouses more often over money problems. And some, probably, are borrowing money to meet expenses.

Others are "moonlighting." The most recent figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reveal that nearly 7 per cent of all employed men in America hold two or more jobs.

A multi-million dollar alternative, being chosen by an increasing number of Americans, apparently has escaped the notice of public and private agencies that watch the economy.

The alternative is self-employment in second jobs (as opposed to working for someone else), a development revealed in a survey by the Family Economics Bureau.

There are many indications of this phenomenon, such as front yard signs saying, "Saw Sharpening," "Small Appliance Repair," "Picture Framing." There also are roadside vegetable stands — and homes with business signs saying "Day Nursery" or "Income Tax Service" or "Beauty Shop."

The "cottage industry"

common in developing countries is flourishing in affluent, industrialized America.

More than a half million people were self-employed in non-agricultural secondary jobs during 1970, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says. The same year, another 600,000 people, who worked full time, were also self-employed in agriculture. Evidence that the number of people self-employed in their spare time is increasing rapidly is found in reports by companies that sell equipment to individuals for "family factories."

Warren Electric Co. of Chicago registered a 70 per cent increase in sales of its laminating machines in 1973 compared with 1970. A company that sells knife and saw sharpening machines for home shops increased its sales nearly 80 per cent from 1970 to 1973.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Mon., July 29, 1974 Page 6

Another company, selling kilns that are used to fire pottery and ceramic objects, increased sales by more than 100 per cent during the same period.

Sales to individuals by the National Craft and Hobby Supply Co., which caters primarily to retail stores, increased "substantially" during the three years ending Jan. 1, 1974. The company has benefited from "a definite trend" toward purchase by individuals of candle-making materials such as wax, dyes and scents — as well as material used to make figurines — and art plaster, acrylic paints, metallic rubs and antiquing stains.

Classified advertising sections of newspapers in June 1970 were compared with similar editions in June 1974. The number of "for sale" ads apparently placed by individuals increased an average of 47 per cent during the three-year period.

Comparison was made of ad sections entitled "Dogs, Birds and Pets," "Miscellaneous Merchandise" and "Garage Sales."

Some people apparently conduct perpetual garage sales, taking commissions for selling merchandise provided by neighbors, friends and relatives.

One other indication of the rise of "cottage industry" is the increase in the number of after-hours income tax preparers who work from Jan. 1 to April 15.

Russell Scott, public information officer for the Internal Revenue Service, estimated there were about 100,000 part-timers in 1974, compared with half that number in 1970.

Many times a hobby just seems to expand spontaneously into a profitable business, the Family Economics Bureau found.

A housewife, for instance, may take up painting or sewing, or making dolls, jewelry, stuffed toys or lamps for friends and relatives. Then she realizes that she could pay the rent by increasing production, and she begins selling the handwork on consignment through gift or art shops or at art fairs.

"Three Flights Up" in suburban Edina, Minn., is one of many on-consignment art shops in the U.S. that keep a percentage of the selling price and pay suppliers only after the items are sold.

Often, part-time work is an extension of a full-time occupation. Music teachers, for instance, sing for pay at night. Writers "free lance" for news services or magazines or serve as "stringers."

Some families, hard-pressed to "make ends meet," are forced to find after-hours occupation. One family makes bear, elephant and other animal figurines out of colored marbles.

Another makes pyramidal lamp bases out of marble heated in the kitchen oven until they melt inside into flowing colors. The family has several regular retail store customers.

David Swanson of Utica, Mich., says he makes more than $60 a week in his spare-time sharpening shop. Lawrence Stevenson of East Syracuse, N.Y., claims to make $4,000 per year doing the same work — sharpening saws, knives and other cutting tools.

Part-time locksmiths sometimes make $10 an hour. Picture-framing is another profitable pastime for pay. An enterprising and energetic family that needs or wants more money has many endeavors to choose from.

Some families establish "family factories," complete with assembly lines, to produce leather goods, millinery, stuffed toys, and animals and birds used as yard ornaments.

Some even raise worms, in great demand at bait shops. It is apparent that almost anyone who is motivated can earn extra money in his spare time. Even college professors do it when they provide consulting services. So, one wonders, "Who is motivated?" The young, uneducated and semiskilled are most likely to want more work," according to findings by the Institute for Social Research of the University of Michigan, published in a book, "Productive Americans."

Yet, desire for supplementary income is not only a desire. It is a desire too — a desire for still more.

As the authors of "Productive Americans" expressed it, "Those with more money were also more likely to want still more — another example of continually rising aspirations."

An indication of "who" earns second incomes through self-employment is found in a report of the Labor Statistics Bureau on those who hold second jobs.

Farmers have the highest multiple job-holding rate. Rising taxes and fluctuating farm income make it necessary for them either to work "in town" or quit farming.

In a study published in May 1969, the BLS reported that four of 10 worked to "meet regular household expenses." One in 10 said he or she worked to pay off debts. These proportions may have increased as inflation's appetite for purchasing-power dollars has increased.

Though the main reason for working after hours is necessity, there may be other forces motivating the self-employed who spend much of their spare time working for themselves.

The four-day and the fewer-hours work week have given millions of people more leisure time — and some choose to spend that time profitably.

Sociologists' report widespread acceptance of the novel notion that one can enjoy work and that true happiness is enjoying "work" and earning money at the same time.

In any event, there's no doubt that millions of Americans work for themselves in their spare time — and that the millions of dollars they earn apparently are an uncalculated element in the national economic picture.

COINS ARE STOLEN

Collectors' coins which would sell for about $450 were stolen from the Granite City Coin Shop, 2420 Nantreki Road, during a burglary at 4 a.m. Friday. Officers found the front door glass broken and the coins missing from a small display case. Many other cases were not touched.

'Grumpy' among entries in Gateway Nationals

Bill Jenkins, better known as "The Grumpy," will be back competing at the fourth annual American Hot Rod Association Gateway Nationals Aug. 2, 3 and 4 at St. Louis International Raceway.

Jenkins' pro-stock Vega, "Grumpy's Toy," was stolen several hours before the final eliminations were to begin on Sunday during the 1973 Gateway Nationals.

Jenkins' car hauler, which contains the race car and enough spare parts such as engines, transmissions and rear-end assemblies to completely rebuild the car several times, if needed, will be guarded by security officers during its stay in the St. Louis area.

The man who has won more pro-stock national titles than any other driver in the history of the sport and whose earnings reportedly exceeded $350,000 in 1973, Jenkins will be seeking his first Gateway Nationals title.

Jenkins currently holds the track record at St. Louis International and was low qualifier at the 1973 Gateway Nationals. He is expected to again lower the track record and may set a new A.H.R.A. national record for the pro-stock category.

On Friday night, as a prelude to the national competition, Jenkins will compete in a special match race against Larry Huff's Soapy Sales pro-stock at 8 o'clock. Friday night's activities also will include runs by funny cars, pro-comp, top fuel dragsters and cars in most AHRA money and trophy classes. Gates will open Friday at noon and eliminations for super stock, stock, street and selectra money classes as well as trophy eliminations will begin at 6 p.m.

By Saturday, nearly all of the biggest names in drag racing will have arrived at the local track and will begin warming up their funny cars, top fuelers, pro-comp and pro-stock in anticipation of semi-final qualifying rounds that evening.

Sunday will be the championship day with all professional and money classes competing as well as runs by the wheel-standers and jet cars. Most of the big name drivers in the professional categories already have submitted entry forms. Expected are more than 100 supercharged funny cars, top fuel dragsters, pro-comp and prostocks. Also invited are four wheel-standing cars and two jet cars.

Funny car drivers entered include Don "The Snake" Pruden and Tom "The Mongoose" McEwen, "Superman" Jim Nicoli, Gene "The Snowman" Snow, Don Schumacher, Dale Pude in the Mickey Thompson car, Jim Dunn, Ed McCulloch, Charlie Thierwanger and many others.

Top fuel competitors entered include "Big Daddy" Don Garlits, "Kansas John" Wabe, Ronnie Martin, James Warren, Chris "The Greek" Karamesines and others.

Pro-stock entries, besides Jenkins, include Wayne Gapp, point leader Bill Bagshaw, Larry Huff, Warren Johnson and others.

All of the top point contenders in pro-comp also are expected, including national point leader Dale Armstrong.

Wheel standers invited include Bill "Maverick" Golden's Little Red Wagon, Gary Watson's "Fugitive," the Taddy Wagon and the popular Hell on Wheels wheel-standing tank. Also expected here are the Earthquake Jet and the Pulsation Jet.

Gates Friday will open at noon with eliminations at 6 p.m. Sunday time-trials will begin at 9 a.m. with semi-final rounds and final qualifying at 6 p.m. Sunday's activities will begin at 9 a.m. with the championship runs at 2 p.m.

General admission tickets will be $5 each day with children under 12 admitted free. Starting line tickets will be available Saturday and Sunday for $8 each.

St. Louis International Raceway is located at Route 203 and Interstate 70, south of Madison.

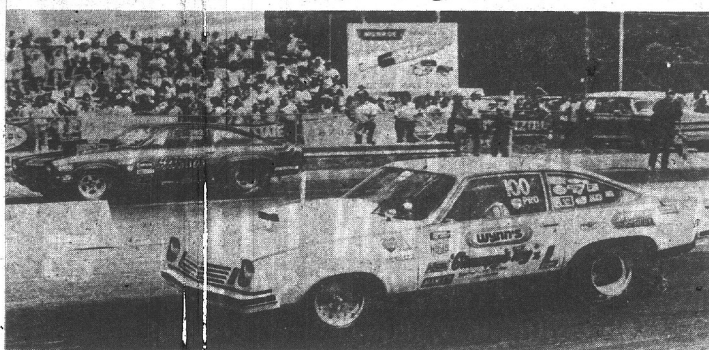

Venice tourney registration

Baseball team registrations still are being accepted for the Venice and Brooklyn joint bantam and midget tournament to be held at Venice's Lee Park this Friday through Sunday.

Trophies for first, second and third team places in each division will be presented, as well as a trophy for a youth chosen as most valuable player in each division.

Information may be obtained by contacting George Wade, league co-director, at 877-5848. Teams also may enter by mailing a check or money order payable to: Venice and Brooklyn Baseball Leagues, in care of John H. Williams, Apt. 107, Gareche Home, Madison Park.

A $10 per team entry fee is required.

NEW GRUMPY'S TOY pro-stock Vega of Bill "Grumpy" Jenkins which will compete in the Gateway Nationals of Drag Racing this weekend at St. Louis International Raceway. Jenkins' former $35,000 car was stolen during last year's Gateway Nationals and the new car will be under armed guard during its three day stay here. Jenkins and Warren Johnson, driving the car beside Grumpy's Toy, will be among 700 entries expected here for the national drag race.

GC Braves have crown in sight

Only one more baseball game stands between an overall Belleville Area Traveling League championship or runner-up honors for the Granite City Braves after the local squad downed Red Division leader O'Fallon 3-2 in 12 innings yesterday at Wilson Park.

The Braves will meet

Belleville West to decide the league championship at 1:15 p.m. Sunday at Wilson Park. The winner of the Braves-West contest will represent this district in a state meet at Springfield Aug. 11.

Ballying behind the pitching of Randy Lyerla and Rick Fancher, the Braves, now 21-9, took a 1-0 lead in the third inning. Rich Schmidt homered for the Braves in that inning. O'Fallon tied it in the fourth. The Braves 12-7, had runners in scoring position in the sixth, ninth, tenth, and tenth innings but failed to score as the Braves' defense stiffened up.

In the top of the twelfth, O'Fallon got the tie-breaker to lead 2-1.

The Braves' Jeff Scarborough then walked and advanced to third on a double by Ed Schmidt. With one out, Tom Manooigan hit a sacrifice fly that scored Scarborough and sent Schmidt to third.

With two away, Brian Sikes singled between first and second bases to drive in Schmidt and with him another Braves victory.

Rich Fancher, now 5-2 on the mound, was credited with the win. O'Fallon High School all-state hurler Buschmann received the loss for the defending Illinois Khoury League champions.

The Braves see action again tonight as they continue their non-league schedule by traveling to Bayless High School at St. Louis for a 6 p.m. game in preparation for Sunday's league championship game.

Saints outpower Braves

In a non-league contest at Wilson Park Thursday, the Belleville Area Traveling League baseball Braves of Granite City lost 5-3 to the St. Louis Saints.

The Saints, using a battery of pitchers which included Missouri all-star Al Ohshead of Hazelwood High, were played head-to-head by the first-year Braves who broke out on top in the third inning.

Rich Schmidt singled, moved to third on Ed Schmidt's single, and then scored on Jeff Scarborough's sacrifice.

Braves hurler Kirk Champion held the Saints scoreless until the sixth when the visitors took the lead by pushing across two runs.

In the top of the eighth, the St. Louis squad loaded the bases on walks and scored all three as the result of two Brave errors and a fielder's choice.

Granite City, trailing 5-1 in the eighth, fought back as Champion singled, Rich Schmidt walked, and Ed Schmidt singled, scoring Champion. Rich Schmidt then scored from third base on Daris Davis' sacrifice fly.

Champion, in allowing seven hits, struck out nine and walked four batters. He was relieved on the mound in the eighth by Davis.

Of the Braves six hits, the Schmidt brothers had two apiece, and Scarborough and Tim Luehmann got one each.

Boy-girl team tennis for 10-14 age group

Parents of eight communities — Granite City, Cahokia, Collinsville, Columbia, East St. Louis, Mascoutah, O'Fallon and Wood River — have organized team tennis for boys and girls in the 10 to 14 age group.

Mrs. Adele Leskara, general chairman, commented, "We organized this for young tennis players because there are few opportunities for them to participate in other association tournaments."

The organization has 250 members with the smallest number, eight, being from Granite City and the largest, 40, from Columbia.

Team rules state that at least two girls must be on a team for each meet and, when challenged, a player must accept in order to defend his or her seeded position.

The Granite City team has a 2-1 record, having defeated O'Fallon and Columbia before losing to Collinsville.

Granite City members are Jim Ettimoff, Jeff Hagopian, George Miller, Laura Gabriel, Christy Bauer, Tammy Terrell, Andy Hall and Terri Deterding.

The local team will hold its next meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday against East St. Louis at the GCHS South tennis court.

Seek overthrow of Texas cycle riders

The big question being asked among Quad-City area motorcycle racing fans is, "How long can Texas riders dominate the Tuesday night events at Tri-City Speedway?"

Texas riders, thus far this season have captured five feature events in eight outings during the weekly American Motorcycle Association sanctioned programs here. The most recent being Guy McClure last week.

In sweeping every event except qualifying time-trials, he placed second behind fellow Texan James Lee, McClure joined Lee as a two-time main event victor.

The only other non-Texas riders to win here were St. Louisian Neil Keen and Oklahoma's Randy Cleek.

Other than Lee and McClure, the Lone Star state saw Mike Kidd in the winners circle.

Racing on the quarter-mile dirt oval Tuesday will get underway with time-trials at 7 p.m., with the first heat race at 8 p.m.

Additional Junior Olympics champions

Following are additional individual champions in the Junior Olympics held at GCHS South as part of the 1974 Granite City park district summer playground recreation program.

Competition was divided into large enrollment centers, won by the Marshall School playground group, and smaller enrollments, captured by Logan School.

Names of event champions follow:

Niedringhaus — Karen Souers, Lori Deterding, Dave Cotton, Glenn Edwards, Marlene Lindsey, Dave Fernandez, Vince Fisher, Dawn Deterding (2), and Jackie Bogosian (2).

Wilson — Midgut relay squad of Holley Lambert, Marly Laird, Debbie Mueller, and John Keudal. Philip Benda, Bonnie Williams, Jill Bledsoe (2), Billy McKinnon (2), Neal Cave, Dana Fanning.

Simpson joins Billiken cagers

Remember Warrior basketball uniform number 32? Remember the man who wore that uniform for Granite City High School in his senior year in 1969?

Remember Gary Simpson, who, while wearing number 32 as a senior, retrieved 139 rebounds, had 75 assists, hit 51 per cent from the field, sank 82 per cent of his free throws and scored 696 points in 25 games for a Granite City single season scoring record?

Simpson, last week, announced he will resume his basketball career by indicating to Billiken Coach Randy Albrecht that he will enroll at St. Louis University this fall.

The six-foot-one guard entered Louisiana State University in the fall of 1969 on an athletic scholarship.

He averaged more than 10 points per game as a rookie at LSU and the following season became a starter on the varsity squad there.

Simpson left school to enter the U.S. Army in the summer of 1971 and spent two years in the service.

"Gary is very anxious to prove to himself and us that he can recall the skill which made him one of the most colorful and talented guards to come out of the area in many years," said Albrecht.

Recalling that Simpson once was described as having a split basketball personality because he played offense like Batman and defense like the Boston Strangler, Albrecht added,

"We're going to give him every opportunity to develop his abilities."

"He can be a terrific playmaker because of his great ballhandling ability, exceptional hands and remarkable vision."

Simpson and his wife, the former Delores Hedges, now reside in Granite City. He will have two years of eligibility remaining for the Billikens, beginning this fall.

Spalding wins 50 lap race

Web Spalding, defending Tri-City Speedway track champion, captured his fourth late model stock car feature race of the season here Friday after leading the pack from start to finish in the 50-lap mid-season championship.

After an absence of two weeks from racing, the Pontoon Beach driver overcame mechanical problems that had beset him during that time span to sprint into the lead Friday from the outside pole position and was never headed all the way to the checkered flag.

St. Louisian Bill Scherer finished second and current late model point leader Len Git-temier of St. Charles, Mo., was third.

Spalding commented afterwards, "The car handled very well. One would never have known it had been wrecked three weeks ago."

His No. 444 suffered extensive front-end damage in that accident and left Spalding driving the car he usually drives on asphalt speedways.

The feature race was the only event the local pilot was to win however, as East Alton's C.C. Corbin set fast time with a one-lap clocking of 26.60 seconds and heat races were taken by Russ Wallace, Ron Hourigan, Jim Patrick, and Bob Buchanan. Bethalto's Lou Jansen captured the handicap event.

Defending sportsman track champion Pat Walsh, with injured the lead in the 50-lap feature race for that class after Granite City's Rod Bailey, who had led for 29 laps before dropping out with a flat tire, yielded to him on lap 43. Gary Wallace and Kris Krohn finished second and third, respectively, behind Walsh.

Bailey and John Kudelka, also of Granite City, were sportsman heat race victors.

Late models and sportsman class stock car racing will resume at Tri-City Speedway this Friday with time trials at 7:30 p.m. and racing at 8:30 p.m.

Ervin committee has provided blueprint for constructive new legislation

The Senate voted unanimously Feb. 5, 1973, to create a select committee to cut through the fog that clung to the Watergate break-in. Its charge was not to establish individual guilt or innocence, but to recommend procedures to insure against a repetition of the abuse of power exposed by the June 17, 1972, burglary of the Democratic national headquarters.

The final report of the committee this month, proposing overhaul of campaign laws and a tighter rein on White House occupants, is an analysis of the factors that led to Watergate and a review of possible methods by which such conduct can be avoided in the future.

A key conclusion of the panel, in view of the direction of current Congressional thinking, is its dismissal of public financing of campaign costs as an essential ingredient of reform.

But the committee would limit the amount that could be given by an individual to $3,000 and by an organization to $6,000 in support of Presidential candidates. Spending would be restricted in the general election to 12 cents for each person of voting age.

The report calls for a Federal Elections Commission to administer federal election laws and a permanent U.S. prosecutor to guarantee independent enforcement.

Future presidents would be forbidden from creating private investigative units, such as the "plumbers" of the 1970s, and would be required to make public their income tax returns.

Generally, the Senate Watergate committee would encourage voluntary participation by American citizens in the political process while seeking to prevent the abuses of past campaigns.

A principal accomplishment was its educational function—informing Americans about executive privilege, balance of powers and impeachment ramifications. The televised hearings forcefully brought home to citizens the manner in which government and politics can stray into sinister overtones.

While some feel a few committee members engaged in excessive moralizing—a couple of them apparently hypocritically—Sen. Sam Ervin's committee has gained widespread approval for its now completed effort to draw a blueprint for needed legislative safeguards.

Clampdown on construction of needed new homes strangling this community

As was noted here on July 11, there is an unmet need for new homes in this part of Madison County, including the mile-and-a-half zone surrounding Granite City.

Madison County declines to accept plats for recording until Granite City has assented. Because such acquiescence has not been given, little or no new residential construction is taking place and the outlook for it is dim.

This is a matter of serious consequence to all, because a cessation of housing expansion serves to force many who would prefer to live here to instead locate in distant areas.

Special deputies ended because there is no legal basis for their activity

The decision was not an easy one to make, but Madison County Sheriff John Maeras appears to have taken the right action in terminating the long tradition of commissioning hundreds of residents as special deputies.

Legal research has shown there is no basis for such assignments except temporarily while serving civil process documents. Instead, the commissions have been interpreted broadly. Some carried weapons and assumed virtually full law enforcement powers without benefit of the kind of training that is accorded to full-time, salaried deputies.

Auxiliaries on duty in Cottage Hills, Rosewood Heights and State Park Place are to be converted to licensed private security units. If this proves to have deficiencies, as seems possible, residents of these densely populated areas may wish to consider creating municipal police departments.

Mayors effect discontent over federal treatment of communities

The mayors of America's cities are closer to the people than the men and women elected to state legislatures or to Congress. They stay around them more. So, what the mayors think of the federal government's performance of the last few years is significant. In effect, it's a reflection of how many Americans feel about Washington, D.C.

More than 350 mayors gathered in San Diego, Calif., recently for the 42nd annual U.S. Conference of Mayors. Once a year these "grass roots" executives meet to discuss their common and uncommon problems, to pass resolutions seeking to redress the wrongs they perceive in the nation's capital and elsewhere.

This year more than ever in recent history the mood of the mayors of cities large and small could be described by one word: disenchantment. Their outright dismay over the state of the union and its effect on their communities, never was more evident.

Now, it is not unusual for mayors to complain that events beyond their control are contributing to higher tax rates and many other city problems, even including the trashman's failure to pick up the garbage on time.

This year, however, the mayors were reciting chapter and verse in their criticism of the Nixon administration—aside from Watergate—and Congress.

While Mayor Roy B. Martin Jr. of Norfolk, Va., was not a spokesman for the hundreds of other mayors, what he said mirrored the attitude of many.

Outgoing president of the conference, Martin expressed publicly what many mayors were saying privately: that America's cities, no matter how hard they try to solve their modern-day problems, can't make it unless the federal government is a willing and active copartner.

"At this time the government's effort is not forthcoming," Martin said. "The continuing crises of the President together with the inactivity of Congress have combined to create a vacuum in national government."

"Goals and objectives are not being set; national direction is lacking. The task of establishing the goals for this nation must be assumed by the federal government. Cities must not let it (the government) shrink from its responsibility to guide and direct the national effort."

Other mayors ticked off what they called Washington failures: Revenue sharing, once the great hope of the cities, has fallen wide of the mark and created only discord in many communities which believe they are getting the short end of the stick. The mayors say President Nixon's vow that the cities would share in federal revenues to help solve their problems has failed somewhere along the line.

All the good things that were to come to pass for urban mass transportation, housing, education, crime prevention and anti-pollution, the mayors say, are lagging behind administration timetables.

"For many of us," Martin said, "the New Federalism, especially, revenue sharing, seemed to be the wave of the future, one which would sweep local government into its proper position in the governmental system. But now we feel the underdog dragging us out to sea."

Mayors of the larger cities especially are disturbed over the failure of Congress to approve comprehensive urban transportation legislation.

"Our federal government continues a program which ties the nation to the automobile," Martin said. "None of us has anything against the automobile. We all have one. But we do need in our communities a way to permit a truly urban system of transportation, the auto and public conveniences as well."

The discontent among mayors seems genuine, for it bubbles up among Republicans and Democrats alike. And, significantly, there were no visible apologists for either the White House or Congress heard at the annual conference.

Funeral directors—'Grief expressed is grief diminished'

By BILL WINTER
Funerals are a frequent topic because many people have not fully sorted out their feelings about death, and are more comfortable when considering other subjects.

The new president of the Illinois Funeral Directors Association is trying to change that by putting a brighter spotlight on his occupation and its objectives.

Lynn E. Berry of Virden was elected to head the group at its 94th annual convention, held in Chicago this summer.

In past years, the IFDA has sought to broaden understanding of funerals and their purpose by conducting clergy seminars and widow and widower conferences, placing the "Perspectives on Death" mini-course in high schools and colleges, and providing books, films and resource brochures to the public and to schools and libraries.

President Berry has set as the theme for 1974-75 "Advocating understanding." A vigorous effort is being launched to help Illinoisans "understand grief situations in a meaningful way."

Funeral directors like to think of their role as that of a ship's rudder. "Just as the rudder of a huge vessel gives direction on the stormy seas, funeral directors help guide grieving persons on a healthy emotional course of recovery," Berry comments.

"The director's service is the funeral. It provides a satisfactory environment for mourning and expressing grief. The values are several: a meeting of those who survive; a custom of viewing a loved one, for example, serves helpful purposes, he asserts. He cites the following facts:

Realization—Because seeing helps us to believe, viewing the dead body makes those present more aware of death's reality, he contends.

Recall Preparation or restoration helps modify and remove marks of accidents and disease. Restoration provides an acceptable image for recalling a deceased's appearance. Even for children, viewing is therapeutic because it allows a child to comprehend death, Berry says.

Expression—Body presence during a visitation or wake provides a natural climate in which to talk about the deceased. Tears need not cause self-consciousness for survivors or visitors; while there is pain, it is hurt that helps heal. "Joy expressed is joy increased; grief expressed is grief diminished," the IFDA leader comments.

Dr. Erich Lindemann, a pioneer on wise ways to cope with grief, says that the most important part of the whole funeral process is "the moment of truth that comes when living persons confront the fact of death by looking at the body."

He continues: "Grief is a feeling. If you deny it, you have difficulty coping with it; but if you face it, you use the process of healthy mourning."

The funeral with the body present, for most people, becomes an experience of value as they work through the sociological, psychological and, where desired, the religious needs that are a part of the grief experience, it is asserted.

For those with a religious faith, the funeral service is seen as a spiritual occasion. "Weeping may endure for the night, but joy cometh in the morning," Psalms 30:5 consoles.

The religious funeral is directed toward meeting spiritual needs. It should be public so that friends can share their emotional and spiritual support and participate in affirmation of belief, the IFDA says.

A "humanistic" or "secular service" for those without a specific belief may provide an alternative method of giving family and friends the opportunity to share their love and sorrow, it is reasoned.

The procession to the burial site is viewed as allowing family members to "consolidate their thinking as they recap the last day or two, particularly the funeral service just prior to the procession."

The commitment of the remains is called "powerfully final." Survivors recognize in a difficult but necessary way that they must make a painful break with the past and look to a new life.

How should funeral costs be determined?

The National Funeral Directors Association outlines four categories of charges that comprise funeral cost:

1. The funeral director's charges include his and his staff's professional services, use of the facilities and equipment employed in funeral and the merchandise selected, including casket, vault and, perhaps, clothing.

2. Disposition costs could be of different kinds. Earth interment requires a grave and charges for opening and closing it. Cremation is separate, as well as urn prices.

3. Memorialization costs may include a monument or grave marker.

4. Miscellaneous expenses could include flowers, honorarium for the clergyman, notary and other services, out-of-town transportation of the body and other items.

Recent surveys indicate "average adult funerals are in the $1,300 range; more in some metropolitan areas."

Of the major expense items, salaries are first. Personnel, facilities and equipment must be available 24 hours a day to serve the public.

Here is a breakdown of average funeral costs, expressed as percentages:

Salaries	29 percent
Merchandise	20 percent
Building	9 percent
Family accommodations	11 percent
Administrative	8 percent
Automobile	6 percent
General expense	5 percent
Taxes	4 percent
Profit margin	9 percent

Total 100 percent

Funeral directors follow a code of professional practice. The code is suggested by state and national associations for three purposes:

To guide the director in his relationship with those who call him to serve.

To help the funeral director in procedure and contacts with clergy in their joint serving of survivors' wishes.

And to assist the funeral director when working with other funeral directors where both have a responsibility to the family.

Before arrangements are made, the funeral director will contact the deceased's clergyman, if this has already been done. The clergyman will decide with the family specific aspects of the religious service.

The funeral director explains his services and prices before a family selects a casket or vault. "Ask any questions you have regarding price ranges, death benefits or burial allowances which may be available through Social Security, Veterans' benefits or other organizations. Your director will assist you in preparing necessary forms to secure allowances or benefits," it is related.

"Having decided upon the services and the merchandise, expect your funeral director to provide a summary agreement to sign."

It will clearly define and price the services selected.

The Illinois Funeral Directors Association invites people to express their opinion of the services provided, voicing their views either directly to the individual or to the state association; the IFDA address is 612 S. 2d St., Springfield, Ill. 62704.

Pamphlets, books, films and visual aids are offered to churches, Bible classes and clubs.

The state president emphasizes the group's willingness to answer inquiries on all aspects of funerals or other death oriented questions.

He concludes that "your funeral director wants to be alert to your needs.

"Express them to him and you'll find him eager to serve you. Funerals, after all, are for the living."

Found throughout Illinois, the silver maple tree has a broadly rounded crown and a trunk which divides into a number of large ascending limbs. Sometimes reaching heights of 100 feet and more, this species adapts best in wet soil. The most distinguishing feature is its deeply lobed leaves, which are silvery-white on the lower surface. This fast-growing tree's bark is gray or silvery and smooth when the tree is young, often becoming loose and scaly or even somewhat shaggy when older. The wood is hard, close-grained and pale brown in color, with the primary use for furniture. The wood is brittle, is often damaged by summer storms and winter salt. Silver maple is sometimes grown as an ornamental or shade tree.

Sound alternative to going bankrupt

To the Editor:
A plan developed in Portland, Maine, is intended to help help thousands of persons out of bankruptcy each year while paying large sums to creditors.

A similar plan is working in Alton and Madison County generally, and may be of interest to Quad-Cityans.

The wage earner plan, Chapter 13 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, is administered in Maine with a series of consumer-supporting innovations aimed at achieving total debtor rehabilitation.

These innovations have been incorporated within Bankruptcy Act changes proposed by the Committee on Consumer Practices of the U.S. Judicial Conference.

A debtor can file a wage earner application. When he does, the following steps go into effect:

Repossession of property is banned without court permission. Contact with creditors halts.

Interest on bills and loans ceases, except for six per cent simple interest yearly on secured debts. Creditors must prove that their claims are free of priority. And, only creditors filing valid claims receive payments.

The system is eliminating some claims as illegal because of excessive interest rates or unconscionable contracts.

The plan gives debtors a chance to get out from under their financial burden while avoiding bankruptcy. Their payments continue but are reduced into a single, reasonable weekly amount.

Land use defeat called devastating

To the Editor:
The U.S. environmental movement suffered with one spokesman called "its most devastating defeat of the decade" when the House or Representatives refused to even debate national land use legislation.

Consideration of the House Interior Committee's modest bill, H.R. 10294, was rejected 211-204.

Reaction from disheartened conservationists across the country ranged from demands to charges of "impeachment politics."

The land use bill was seen as the most controversial issue to come before the House in the current 93rd Congress. It was chiefly sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation's "legislator of the year," Cong. Morris Udall (Ariz.).

The most serious blow to the committee's bill reportedly came when President Richard M. Nixon, who had given top priority to strong land use legislation for several years, suddenly switched his support to what environmentalists considered to be a weak substitute sponsored by Cong. Sam Steiger (Ariz.).

"The land use bill unfortunately became an expendable pawn in the White House trading game of impeachment politics," charged Sen. Henry Jackson (Wash.), chairman of the Senate Interior Committee.

"The Administration's astonishing reversal of policy and full-blown retreat on the need for land use policy legislation may have some short-term political gain for the White House, but it is a major loss for the people of this country," Sen. Jackson said.

The bill also fell victim to a harsh, sustained campaign of distortion and emotional attack by Congressional opponents and lobbying groups, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the American Farm Bureau, the Liberty Lobby and other special interests with a large stake in the status quo.

Development and land speculation.

"The claims of the opponents of this bill are patently ridiculous," Udall said, "and they could not have washed had the press given the bill more attention."

Opponents of the bill sensationally charged that passage would inhibit economic growth, create a monstrous federal bureaucracy, undermine property values and destroy land owners' rights.

According to conservationists, the bill instead simply offered federal support to those states which chose to regulate the uses of areas of special environmental interest—wetlands, floodplains and sites with particular scenic, historic and environmental significance.

"Eight thousand acres a day, three million acres a year, are going under the bulldozer," Udall emphasized.

"Cities are sprawling, bursting at the seams. Highways and airports are frequently being misplaced, homes built in floodplains, strip mines dug into beautiful mountainsides," he continued.

"The idea was not to stop growth, but to give it vision and direction, so that we would avoid the mistakes of the past."

Any action on land use legislation is apparently dead for the remainder of the year. Cong. Steiger refused to debate the relative merits of the two bills and instead urged the House to abandon the whole subject and "go home early."

On the vote, 75 Democrats joined 138 Republicans in voting against the rule, while 158 Democrats were joined by 46 Republicans in voting for the

Laclede Steel continues dividend at regular level on new and old shares

Paul B. Akin, Laclede Steel Co. president who announced July 24, a four for one split of the common stock, reports that it will be effected in the form of a 300 per cent stock dividend.

Three additional shares will be given for each share held, the dividend payable by issuance of stock on Aug. 29 to stockholders of record Aug. 9.

There are presently 412,500 shares of common stock outstanding. After the split, there will be 1,650,000 shares outstanding. The transaction provides for the transfer from earned surplus to capital stock of an amount equal to the par value of the number of shares to be issued.

The board of directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share, payable on Aug. 23 to stockholders of record Aug. 9, and directed that this dividend be paid on the new shares as well as the old shares of common stock.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Mon., July 29, 1974 Page 12

The directors also stated that the regular quarterly dividend policy of 50 cents per share will continue.

Akin announced that the Laclede Steel management is developing an extensive two-step modernization and expansion program.

He said the first step will probably include a third electric arc steelmaking furnace similar to the two presently in operation, and a new blooming mill.

He said the new furnace will increase Laclede Steel's raw steel production by approximately 50 per cent, and that the new blooming mill will have much greater capabilities than the present mill.

THE SCHERMER BULLETIN

Our canning salt didn't come last Monday nite as we told you:
but it did show on Wednesday; we have a fair supply for this week.
The story we get is that rail cars and trucks are in demand and salt only gets a very low freight rate; so naturally if they can haul anything else, they will haul it in preference. Locally our salt only comes from Kansas City; but if there is no way to get it here, the stores run out.

Canning salt leads us to mention that we have a good supply of canning jars. Many stores do not have a jar in stock. We do.
As long as we are talking about canning, let us give you our advice. We have had several comments from customers that the price of sugar is too high to can any fruit. First, regarding the price of sugar—we hate to tell you this, but the price of sugar is going up even more. However, EVEN WITH THE HIGH PRICE OF SUGAR, HONEY CANNED FRUIT WILL PROBABLY BE THE BEST BARGAIN IN YOUR PANTRY. We have heard the opening prices on California canned fruit and you wouldn't believe it if we mentioned it: so we're giving a word to the wise.

The same thing applies to canned vegetables. Tomatoes, corn, green beans, etc., home canned this year, will be like money in the bank this fall.

MR. and MRS. DAVID MICHELIS, who were united in marriage at the Church of God Prophecy in Madison. The bride is the former Miss Susan Diani Thompson, a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Thompson, 1515 Second St., Madison.

Susan Thompson wed in candlelight ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. on June 15 at the Church of God Prophecy, Madison, Miss Susan Diani Thompson, a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs.
L. M. Thompson, 1515 Second St., Madison, became the bride of David John Michels, son of Mrs. Margaret Michels, 1738
Fifth St., Madison, and the late John Michels.

An uncle of the bride, the Rev.
Clifford Thompson, heard the couple exchange their marriage vows before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladioli.

Burning white tapers in branched candelabra, festooned with satin bows and greenery, illuminated the sanctuary.
White bows marked the family pews.

Miss Peggy Pier presided at the organ, accompanying Mrs.
Linda Barritt, who sang "As Long As He Needs Me." Mrs.
Judy DeBruce sang "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of satin peau made in Victorian style and trimmed with Nottingham lace. The skirt was fashioned with a gathered ruffle at the hemline.

She wore a veil of bridal tulle, the bride selected a matching lace cap. Her bouquet was a cascade of orange carnations, yellow pom poms and lemon leaves.

Miss Jolene Varady was maid of honor serving with bridesmaids, Mrs. Cathy Levellin, a sister of the bride and Miss Kay Moore.

They were gownned alike in summer pastel colored dresses accented with lace trim. Each carried a colonial bouquet of orange carnations, yellow pom poms and baby breath.

Kathy Hutchings, a cousin of the groom, served as flower girl, carrying a basket of rose petals. The ringbearer was Tony Lewellen, a nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Thompson, mother of the bride, chose a long floral print gown and white accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Michels, was attired in a full length dress of aqua chiffon, complemented with beige accessories. Both wore white cymbidium orchids.

of the bride, attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen and ushers included Dan Sipes, Ronnie Jones, Robert Burgess, the groom's nephew, and Jeffery N. Thompson, a brother of the bride.

ceremony, Mrs. Joanne Garcia, a cousin of the bride, sang "Let It Be Me."

Guests greeted the newly married couple at a reception held in the fellowship hall of the First Presbyterian Church in Madison.

They are now residing in Pekin, Ill.

Plateau baskets of spring flowers in assorted colors decorated the altar for the 7 o'clock double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John Jameson.

Preceding the service, Mrs.
Janet Brake sang "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," and The Lord's Prayer. She was accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Phyllis Talley.

A white satin Empire style gown was worn by the bride.
Designed with a high neckline and long sheer sleeves, her gown was accented with a decorative lace trim and the Aline skirt extended into a chapel train.

Her shoulder length veil was secured to a lace halo headpiece and she carried a cascade of pink roses, forget-me-nots and greenery.

blue dress fashioned with a lace Empire bodice and chiffon skirt.

Miss Janet Harper, Miss Cindy Johnson, both cousins of the bride, and Miss Sharon Stockton served as

They wore identically styled dresses in pastel pink. Each

News notes

A $740,000 surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30 was reported by the Bi-State Transit System Thursday at a meeting of the board of commissioners of the Bi-State Development Agency.

It was the first balance reported by the transit system since 1968 when it reported a surplus of $128. Increased passenger fares and lower operating costs were responsible for the financial improvement, officials of the bus operation said.

Printing of petition forms calling for a referendum on a proposal to change the form of administration of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District is expected this week, according to State Rep. Morris E. Plinn, D-Calhoun, sponsor of the legislation permitting the vote. The petition must carry at least 300 signatures. Plinn said he will seek 3,000 signatures and that a committee will be formed to back the referendum.

The new system would retain the levee district within its present Madison-St. Clair County boundaries, but would permit appointment of its five-man board of trustees by the chairman of the County Boards of the two counties and trustees from Madison County and three from St. Clair County.

John Poteat of Decatur, Ill. became the sixth fatality of the July 19 explosion and fire in the Decatur rail yards. Poteat, a 23-year-old railroad switchman, died Thursday. Two of more than 130 persons injured in the blast still are under treatment in a Springfield burns unit.

Carl Marburger, former commissioner of the New Jersey State Department of Education, has been hired by the Illinois State Board of Education to head the search for a state school superintendent.

Gov. Dan Walker has vetoed money set aside in the budgets of five state agencies that was intended for Attorney General William J. Scott to do legal work for the agencies. Walker said leaving the money in the budget would enable Scott to "poke his nose into the affairs of certain state agencies and would deny the agencies the right to hire their own attorneys."

A Jackson County grand jury has indicted Southern Illinois University's former executive vice-president and the chief of security police on a charge of tampering with public records, following an investigation into the expenditure of $5,600 in Carbondale campus funds for the purchase of liquor. Named in the indictments are Danilo Orsiccini, the former No. 2 man at the school, and Thomas Leffler, head of SIU's security force.

Two Madison men are among nine employees of the Territorial Railroad Association who have filed a $60 million law suit against the corporation and five unions which represent its employees. The suit seeks an injunction to restrain the railroad and the unions from maintaining a policy and practice of discrimination against blacks and Spanish surnamed persons with respect to hiring, compensation, terms, promotions and conditions of employment. The plaintiffs include Clyde Perkins and Chris Simmons of Madison, six men from East St. Louis and one from St. Louis.

Hearing possible on rail signals

State Senator Sam Vadalabene (D, Edwardsville) told the Press-Record Friday he is forwarding to the village of Fawn Beach forms by which the village can obtain an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing on ordering warning signals or gates installed at the Lake Drive railroad crossing. Any municipality, township or county can formally request and obtain an ICC hearing on whether a particular crossing is so hazardous that warning devices are justified, Vadalabene said.

Israel tour is described

War-time troop movements and damage were viewed by 25 Quad-Cityans during a tour of Israel this spring. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Huber related in presenting photo slides of historic and religious sites at last week's Granite City Rotary luncheon.

President Walter Milton presided and Bill H. Terrell was program chairman.

The Hubers noted that the territory of Israel includes sites associated with three major religious faiths, and said principal economic activities are agriculture, diamond cutting and tourism. They commented that the tour had left a deeper impact on them than their previous world travel.

Young farmers competition

"What Are The Essential Ingredients For The Development Of Sound Foreign Markets?"

That is the topic for this year's Illinois Farm Bureau Young Farmers Discussion Meet competition which opens with a series of district meetings starting Thursday.

Each meeting will feature a foreign marketing seminar with a representative of the Illinois Farm Bureau commodities division as speaker—Dale E. Bultz, executive director of the commodities division, or Jeff Gain, director of commodity programs.

The evening meetings will start with a dinner session in which recognition will be given to the district IAA Young Farmer award winner. The program is designed to recognize extraordinary accomplishments in farming and leadership. Participants are judged on management, innovation, and self-initiative in their farming operations, the source and use of capital as key points in the judging.

They also are judged on leadership experience. The award program is part of the Illinois Farm Bureau Young Farmers Committee program for recognizing outstanding young farmers. Six finalists will be named in the statewide competition for the IAA Young Farmer award, to be announced at the Illinois Farm Bureau annual meeting in December.

The state winner will represent Illinois in the national competition during the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting in January.

Following the dinner session will be the foreign marketing seminar and the discussion meet competition. Three discussion meet winners will be selected from each district to compete in the statewide competition during the IFB annual meeting. Winner of the state contest will receive a trophy and represent Illinois in the National Young Farmers and Ranchers Discussion Meet at the AFBF convention in January 1975.

The schedule of meetings by IAA field services districts:

District 1—Aug. 15, DeKalb County Farm Bureau, DeKalb.

District 2—Aug. 14, Melings Restaurant, Moline.

District 3—Aug. 12, McLean County Farm Bureau, Bloomington.

District 4—Aug. 1, Holiday Inn, Effingham.

District 5—Aug. 7, Madison County Farm Bureau, Edwardsville.

District 6—Aug. 6, Ramada Inn, Marion.

Save gas. Save by elephant.

When you want something done right, you can do it yourself. Or let Oliver Elephant do it.

Just send him this coupon, or call the office near you, and he'll send you an Illini Federal Trip Saver. That's all you need to deposit to or withdraw from your passbook savings account. Or even to open a new passbook account.

Trip Savers are gas-saving, money-saving, time-saving envelopes. They have deposit and withdrawal slips built-in, and the postage is pre-paid. So all you do is fill out the right slip, put your check and passbook in the pocket and drop the whole thing in a mailbox. Oliver will take it from there.

He'll credit your new or existing account with a deposit or write you a check for a withdrawal. Then he'll send you your passbook and a new Trip Saver by return mail.

Frankly, we like to see your face around Illini's offices. But, with gas prices what they are these days, maybe you'd rather save by elephant.

Steel production holding close to '73 record pace

During the first six months of 1974, domestic steel production held close to last year's record output rate—despite raw material and energy shortages, and needed maintenance on equipment that had been operating virtually at capacity for more than a year.
 In May, the number of personnel employed in steel production was 100,200 at 116.6
 in June. This compares with an index of 118.0 in May and 119.0
 in April.
 Domestic steel industry employment costs for hourly workers climbed to nearly nine dollars an hour during May, following the signing of a new industry-wide labor contract at the beginning of the month.
 These costs reached $8.96 an hour in May—an increase of 57 cents an hour from April.
 In May, the number of persons on steel industry payrolls also climbed to its highest level of the year. During the month, 173,000 tons.
 In June of this year, domestic steel production was 12,800,000 tons of this total, 6,779,000 tons came from BOF's, 3,002,000 tons from open hearths and 2,378,000 tons from electric furnaces.
 AIST's steelmaking index, based on average 1957 production as 100, stood at 116.6
 in June. This compares with an index of 118.0 in May and 119.0

Railroads had important role

August, 1874, was a month when the railroads had a booming business carrying thousands of Chicagoans to outings in the surrounding countryside, but otherwise it was practically a blank spot in Illinois history.
 It was the time when the dairy farmers in the western suburbs complained about trains so slow the milk shipped on their source before it reached the customers; the dairymen decided to do something about the situation.
 Although there was a dearth of Illinois news, a sampling of the 110 newspapers in the State Historical Library for August of a century ago shows that the state's dailies were unanimously liberal in covering the Beecher case.

 (Turnverein) societies.
 On the same day, the Clan-na-Gael association held an outing at their park, situated some twelve miles from the city on the Lake Shore and Rock Island railroad. Three trains were reported to leave "somewhere between 2,000 and 3,000" to the games and festivities.
 That day also marked the "Ninth Annual Picnic and Games" of the Chicago Caledonian club, a society which embraces almost all of Chicago's Scottish Population.... It is estimated that fully 9,000 people were upon the beautiful grounds known as "The Caledonian." Trains left

 8:30 a.m.
 Scheduled for the next day,
 with railroad transportation, were the annual picnic of the United Sons of Erin at Sharpshooters' park, St. Mary's annual picnic at Oak Forest grove, and the "tenth annual picnic in aid of St. Bridget's church" at Mount Forest.
 In reporting a solution to the sour milk problem the Chicago Journal of Aug. 3 noted that the farmers along the line from Downer's Grove to Yorkville formed an organization and sent a man to New York and Boston to learn what was being done in the east.
 The dairymen then agreed on "hiring a strictly reliable man in Chicago to receive their milk and sell it to peddlers" and to build and stock ice houses "at such station where they ship milk."
